a publication of the study association for european studies CEUICOVISIE CEUICOVIS

Hurricane Europa

IN THIS EDITION...

5 - A LETTER TO THE EUROPEAN UNION, LOVE YOUR YOUNGEST VOTERS

MUSKA NUR

9 - WHY IS IT IMPORTANT TO VOTE (LEFT)?

TWAN HOVER

13 - LETTER FROM THE STORMY BIKE-PACKING ROOM IN SCHIPHOL AIRPORT ANNELIE NÍ DHÁLAIGH

14 - CLOUDY WITH A CHANCE OF

VIKTORIJA GRFIDĀNF

GRAND SLAM

Imprint

Editorial office: Kloveniersburgwal 48, room E2.04/2.05, 1012 CX Amsterdam

Editor-in-chief: Yael Pless

Editors: Annelie Ní Dhálaigh, Muska Nur, Viktorija Greidāne, Yael Pless, Twan Hover.

Design: Agnette Dobloug.

Editorial

Yael Pless

Dear reader.

This year's final edition of Eurovisie is here with the theme 'Eye of the Storm'. While the whole world has had its eyes on multiple storms raging both close and afar, I invite you to reflect on past actions, present moments, and future opportunities - are you in the eye of the storm? Are you witnessing the billowing thunderclouds that drag heavily across the skies, promising downpour? Or perhaps striding past the aftermath of the gale? Are you in the heart of the madness, watching it unfold?

It has undoubtedly been a tempestuous time, with much destruction, change, and rebuilding. Now more than ever, it is crucial to use the knowledge we are so fortunate to possess to point the compass in the right direction. In this edition, we have four articles, where each brings their unique take on the theme to paper.

Viktorija uses competitive tennis as an example to illustrate the way in which we can all benefit from our own thunderstorm within - if only we hone when to unleash it. She conveys a powerful message in light of how the time to use our voices is now; yet we must know how to speak up.

Twan articulately details the benefits of voting for the left, in the face of surging right wing nationalism. He points out the problems we may face if politics remain on the same trajectory, encouraging awareness.

Muska sought out peers from various backgrounds to write her interview-style piece on the current state of European politics. She seamlessly intertwines the opinions of her interviewees with her own concerns addressed in a letter to the European Union.

Lastly, Annelie tells us a story; cleverly written to make light of a chaotic situation while simultaneously drawing a thoughtful comparison to the cultural differences between the Netherlands and her home country: Ireland. Her piece will leave you amused, and perhaps also with food for thought about the contrast between Dutch culture and your own.

In parting, it has been a privilege to be the editor-in-chief of Eurovisie this year, writing alongside talented minds and weaving our thoughts onto these beautiful pages. I am eternally grateful to have participated in curating editions that painted a blank canvas with a stunning landscape of diverse thought.

Dear reader, as this academic year comes to an end. I wish you a restful and memorable summer

With gratitude,

Yael Pless, editor-in-chief.

letter to the European Union, love your youngest voters to vote for the European Parlia- son answered: 'Climate change, the far-right in national elections. ment's elections. For many of my since us young people will be bea- This young generation feels espegeneration, this is the first time ring the consequences of what we cially inclined to vote due to the they can vote in these elections, decide now.' Many urged stricter rise in right-wing populist parties. With our world rapidly changing measures to achieve the climate They are apprehensive about this and a storm of different crises to goals in time, advocating for 'not shift, particularly what it could resolve, this generation of young only a green Europe but also a mean for the EU. One individual adults has a lot of hopes and sustainably growing Europe.' fears for Europe's future. Whereas our parents and grandparents On the other hand, I received limit the number of votes that go have witnessed a very different some pragmatic perspectives as to extreme right-wing parties, by Europe, most of us cannot remem- well. One respondent stated, 'I emphasizing to others how imber or even imagine a time when also understand that a lot of peo- portant it is to vote for European our countries had closed borders. ple currently have other concerns, elections because I'm scared of What is the norm for us, was the taking not only international vio- what our future will look like undream for past generations.

Muska Nur

significantly shaped by the influx re may be other issues that are of youth votes and their pressing very immediate to a person; for "As the generations that concerns. I was very interested example, in France and other EU in how other people of my age countries, many people live from viewed these elections and what paycheck to paycheck. Purchasing their voting decisions. I intervie- and threatens people's well-being wed numerous young adults from right this instant, so some would different member states and saw rather focus on this instead of how similar their answers were. climate change. When you have These interviews show how poli- that purchasing power issue, I ticized and engaged this genera- think that is more of an immediate tion is.

One of the most important issues 'With so many bad things happediscussed was fighting the clima- ning in the world, climate change A contemporary European sysclimate plans are and want to see young adults have multiple urgent recall an era marred by chaos, determining factor for many when top of the list. choosing a party to vote for, and s I write this article, Euro- combat it. When asked 'what are certainty, rising prices, growing in-Europe's new trajectory will be Another source indicated, 'The- a majority is a priority for many. threat than climate change seems to be.' Someone else mentioned, rights."

take it more seriously, considering these elections is combating the that insecure time are fueled by how little time we have left to rise of the right. In an age of un- the numerous right-wing politicipean citizens across the the most important issues for you equalities, and a lack of social secontinent are getting ready in this election, and why, one per-curity, we see a surge of votes for expressed, 'the most important issue for me currently is trying to lence into account but also gro- der the rule of those parties.' Not wing inequality in most nations.' letting the right-wing parties gain experienced nationalism and fascism in Eurothey considered when making power is a very important issue pe slowly pass away, it seems we are forgetting or somewhat neglecting the cruciality of democracy, the rule of law. and our fundamental te crisis. The youth are disappoin- has been put on the back burner.' tem may seem self-evident within ted with how slow their national These responses showcase how our era, yet previous generations more radical measures on a Euro- concerns to consider before prio- warfare, dictatorships, and authopean scale. Climate change is a ritising placing climate change on ritarianism. They worked hard to establish the democratic foundations that define our present rethey hope the EU politicians will A more pressing issue for many in ality. Anxieties about returning to viewed voung adults articulated not dehumanize the migrants. pro-EU sentiments and therefore. one person stated.

Evidently, we cannot talk about the far-right without mentioning The European Parliament has de- However, the current high level of parties.' Another person added. 'the new pact on migration and asylum which the powerful right/ center right has already caused so many problems with does not work efficiently, and breaches numerous human rights.' 'The world is in a complete mess and I feel like Europe forgets a lot of the time that they historically caused a lot of this.' 'We need to ensure that everyone is able to get a fair and equal chance through seeking asylum.' With all the conflicts around the world, this young generation recognizes Europe's role in International Relations and its ans across Europe advocating for responsibility to take in refugees going on.' I want to see a drastic leaving the EU. It seems that peo- as a reaction to their foreign poli- change in foreign affairs, and for ple are forgetting why the EU was cies. The interviewees acknowled- the EU to advocate for a ceasefire created and are taking their fun- ged the need for a better migrati- and finally hold Israel accountable damental rights for granted,' ex- on system where member states for their genocidal actions.' 'A very pressed one individual. The inter- share the responsibilities and do important issue for me this electi-nalism. They hope to see a Europe lestine. The way that politicians in 'Conflict resolution concerns me with more economic and social the 27-nation bloc are responding most and I would like to see the equality and partly aim to achie- to Israel's war on Gaza, the violen- EU not support the oppressors ve this by steering away from po- ce in the occupied West Bank, and anymore.' pulist rhetoric. For example, one the future of Palestine has emerperson said. 'Discrimination and ged as a significant theme influen- When asked 'How do you feel conservatism pose a threat to mi- cinq political discourse and voter about your country's membership norities and POCs. The EU must decisions. With the official death in the EU? What benefits and take the right steps to guarantee count at nearly 37.000 Palestini- challenges do you see?' All the a safer collective community.' The ans but estimates suggesting a young adults had positive responaspirations of the youth across far higher number. European ci- ses. Open borders are essential to various political domains are vast. tizens are furious about the EU's this generation; most are not used Yet, the prospect of a far-right stance towards Palestine and to anything else. This is a generamajority in the European Parlia- Israel. Ursula von der Leyen and tion with family and friends across ment appears to pose a signifi- other EU politicians expressed the continent, and they greatly cant obstacle to their realization, their support for Israel, speaking appreciate the possibility to free-'We can forget about saving the on behalf of the entire European ly move, work, and study in the planet when the extreme right- Union. However, many Europeans different member states and the wing parties win these elections,' disapprove of this viewpoint and opportunities that come with it. do not feel represented by the The youth observe the substantial EU's external poitics.

migration. This is another crucial manded that Israel open all bor- Euroscepticism poses a significant matter for young adults to consi- ders into Gaza for humanitarian threat to the EU. Certain parties der when voting. 'I find ethical mi- aid and called for 'an unconditio- advocate for abandoning the EU, gration very important, since mi- nal ceasefire.' Millions of people in leaving it to fend for itself. In congration and asylum are big topics the EU and worldwide have been trast, those interviewed recognion the tongue of various political calling for a ceasefire for several ze the importance of remaining months. Even EU staff members within the EU. 'I think we should and diplomats have taken to the tackle big issues as a strong entity streets in Brussels.

> "This shows that many Europeans want to be on the right side of history when casting their ballots this year."

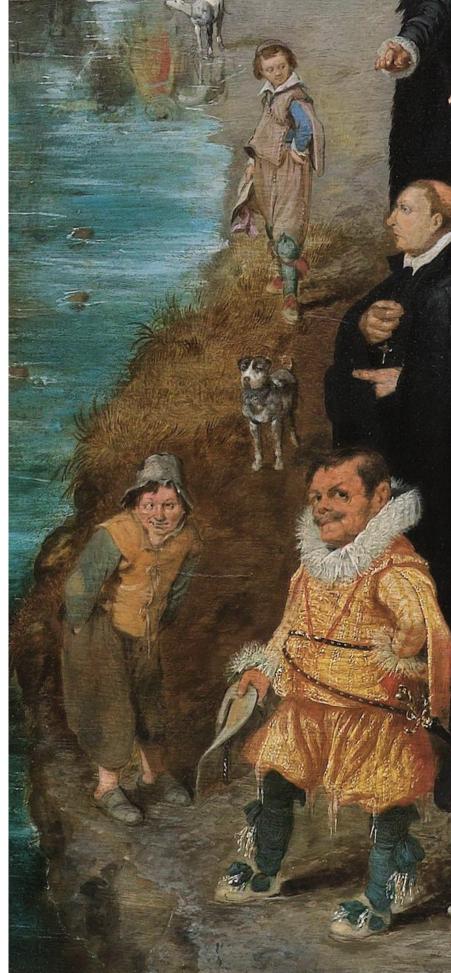

> This is what the people had to say on this topic: 'It is important for me that the EU provides aid to conflicts around the world and prevents multiple genocides on is the war on Gaza, so I mostly looked at parties' viewpoints worry about the revival of natio- Another current urgent issue is Pa- on that to determine my choice.'

> economic benefits their countries. have enjoyed since joining the EU. instead of by ourselves.' 'The only challenge I can think of is working with governments that are very different from our own, but the benefits outweigh the challenges.' 'I have never known a time when my country was not a member of the EU, many things that we see as natural can be taken away and only then we see the consequences of not being a member of the chaos, the EU and its European Parliament can be seen as a stabilizing force amidst the political, economic, and social upheavals across Europe. It represents a place where order and reason prevail despite external pressures. Voters have the chance to shape this space through the European Parliament elections, guiding the Union towards a bright future. 'We young people inherit problems from generation to generation and it seems it will be our responsibility to fix these issues. Therefore it is important for us to be politically active ' on society and the day-to-day te the inclusive and progressive to pay for books. They reduce or world we live in. Europe has seen nature of left-wing governance. stop the financing of cultural instithe rise of radical right-wing mo- Additionally, robust labour pro- tutes and broadcastina. vements popping up in various tections in France and Germany's places throughout the continent, worker participation laws unders- "Overall, the right wing from Great Britain all the way to core their focus on fair labour Russia. These political movements practices, collectively showcasing ting international cooperation and left-wing parties. emphasising national sovereignty.

> Just as the eye of a storm provides a respite from the surrounding

Why is it important to vote (left)?

Twan Hover

Many (extreme) right politicians monly known to be in favour of argue that this approach will im- self-governance and sovereignty, list goes on..." prove the country's economic si- therefore they are against polituation, decrease unemployment, tical unions. This means that a and solve various issues, such as right-winged bloc will lead to a Extreme right politicians argue the housing crisis in the Nether- decrease of international coope- that this approach will improve lands. However, these movements ration, such as the EU. Either way the country's economic situatioften achieve the opposite, as li- this will lead to economic instabi- on, decrease unemployment, and temporary labour can negatively the fact that their countries will housing crisis in the Netherlands. impact the economy. In 2020, the not be able to function without However, these movements often the contrary, in 2024 the majori- tory work, work out on the fields, porary labour can negatively im-

There are a plethora of reasons add a crucial part to the national tages, impacting various sectors why it is beneficial to vote for the economy. So, in case if the right such as agriculture and healthcaright instead of the left. Left-wing wing parties get what they want, re. Moreover, Right-wing parties social and economic benefits, staff and labour shortage. Worst corporations, leading to increased comprehensive social welfare sys- crease immensely. theory, there that such policies disproportiona-Care Act, which have improved only concern humans, for it also Instead, the issue lies within the Germany's Renewable Energy Act gettable factor, is the factor that must be addressed. and Costa Rica's conservation ef- these right winged parties are forts highlight their commitment commonly known to be anti-cultu- On the other hand, left-wing parith the European elec- to sustainability. Human rights re, and the spread of knowledge,

The right-winged parties are com-

tions just having pas- advancements, including the le- By doing so they keep the people sed, one must realise galization of same-sex marriage in dumb. For the Netherlands, what the great importance of voting, various countries, and educational the right wing parties do is that and the amount of merit it has reforms in Finland, demonstra- they increase the taxes by 21% parties are bad for dehave one common motive: eliminative impact of voting for mocracy, bad for the EU. bad for human rights, bad for culture, bad for the environment and the miting the influx of immigrants or lity. Many people are not aware of solve various issues, such as the majority of European parliaments foreign trade or aid. Additionally, achieve the opposite, as limiting consisted of left-winged ones. On many of the essential jobs, fac- the influx of immigrants or temtv of parliaments consist of right are done by foreigners. These pact the economy. Additionally, winged ones. This is a huge chan-foreigners are able to do this job in the Netherlands, right-wing ge in such a short amount of time. because of the EU's regulations. policies that limit immigration Furthermore, these foreigners have exacerbated labour shorpolicies have led to significant the result will be a shortage of often push for tax cuts for large as seen in the Nordic countries' of all, economic inequality will in- economic inequality. Data shows tems, the UK's National Health will be a lot less social security tely benefit the wealthy, leaving Service, and the US Affordable and well-being. But this does not lower-income groups struggling. public health and reduced inequa- negatively impacts the planet and Dutch housing market and the inlity. Environmental initiatives like its environment. Another unfor- fluence of capitalist policies that climate change, crucial issues nomic disruptions and reduced rity, and cultural progress. Addigrams, such as healthcare, education, and social security, which are on social services and fair economy. Left-wing par- maintaining peace and stability. ties promote policies that protect

In the post-Brexit era, EU citizens wages, and stronger social safety have realised the disadvantages nets. They advocate for compreof leaving the European Union. hensive climate policies, renewa-However, some right-wing facti- ble energy, and natural resource ons now seek to undermine the EU protection. Left-wing parties also from within. By gaining more seats champion universal access to in the European Parliament, they healthcare and education, human aim to shift the balance of power rights, inclusivity, and stronger towards nationalism, potentially labour protections. They support leading to less cooperation and a the regulation of financial markets ties champion environmental sus- weaker EU. Post-Brexit, many EU for economic stability, democratic tainability and the fight against citizens have experienced eco-governance, international solidathat their right-wing counterparts freedoms. Left-wing parties aim tionally voting left helps counter often downplay or ignore. Addres- to prevent similar disintegration right-wing extremism and natiosing these environmental challen- by promoting cooperation and nalism fostering a more cohesive. ges is essential for the long-term unity within the EU. Such a shift tolerant, and equitable society. health of our planet and society, threatens to unravel the efforts sential for the long-term health vironment, and much more. Furthermore, left-wing parties of our planet and society. They advocate for human rights, inclu- advocate for robust social welfasion, and diversity, promoting poli- re programs, such as healthcare, cies that protect minority groups, education, and social security. immigrants, and marginalised which are vital for reducing inecommunities. This fosters a more quality and improving the quality inclusive and equitable society, of life for all citizens. Furthermore, Left-wing parties advocate for left-wing parties promote human comprehensive climate policies. rights, inclusion, and diversity, fos-For instance, the Green New Deal tering policies that protect minoriproposed by left-leaning groups ty groups, immigrants, and margiaims to reduce carbon emissions nalized communities. Progressive significantly, a goal crucial for taxation and measures to reduce mitigating climate change. They the wealth gap lead to a more also propose progressive taxation balanced and fair economy. Leftand policies to reduce the wealth wing parties support cooperation gap, leading to a more balanced and unity within the EU, crucial for minority groups and immigrants. Thus, voting for left-wing parties in For example, their support for the EU elections is crucial for proanti-discrimination laws ensures moting social justice, environmenthat all citizens are treated equal- tal protection, and workers' rights. ly, fostering a more inclusive soci- These parties prioritise reducing economic inequality through progressive taxation, higher minimum

Left-wing parties also advoca- made since World War II to secure In conclusion, voting is essential, te for robust social welfare pro- peace and stability across Europe, and supporting parties that align with progressive values is crucial, especially in the face of rising vital for reducing inequality and Left-wing parties champion en- radical right-wing movements. improving the quality of life for all vironmental sustainability and Voting left is vital to counteract citizens. This is in stark contrast the fight against climate change, these movements and support a to right-wing policies that may crucial issues often downplayed fairer, more sustainable future. By prioritise austerity and cutbacks by right-wing counterparts. Ad- doing so, we protect democracy. dressing these challenges is es- equality, the economy, the en-he Dutch are often praised run was imposhible. for their efficiency. Centuries made them so. They create ela- operate on a more relational baborate systems of protection that sis. Mam, whose internal clock is While the Italian man sweated require consistent maintenance, set permanently five minutes late, through his crisp white shirt as At night they take down the arms has the phone number of the lo- he took a hammer to the pedals of the old windmills and wrap cal train station. When she's run- of the triangle, we struggled to them up as if putting them to bed. ning late for the early morning fit my bike in. Neatly printed info-But here in Holland, when it rains, train to Dublin she rings your man graphic instructions on the side of it pours.

As remarked upon by another Irish line between made and missed. And remove the pedals! No olive friend living here with me in Am- "Ah yeah, I see your car coming oil or grunting in Italian required! sterdam. "In Ireland, everything is over the hill now go on." I relay- It wasn't that simple, and the poor so disorganised, it's actually so- ed this anecdote once to some bike had to be dismembered, its mehow more efficient. There are Dutch friends trying to convey skeleton and two wheels left to 10 different backdoors you can an image of Ireland as a friendly, collide around their cardboard try and someone will always give helpful island, which prioritised re- coffin. vou a hand. Whereas here it's too lationships over rules. When they and off with you".

When I first moved to the city stick. three years ago to study, it took service workers meant something Mullingar, I expected Dutch effi- frustrated, to escape the trolley's me'. In fact, after learning Dutch, crisis. The air was thick with ten- me with open arms and amused actually off. "Unmogelijk", comes well-dressed Italian couple in their le helped me in getting that bike closer to "to be allowed". A bet- triangles that were now unrecog- where I waited for Mam, 5 minuinteresting how guickly the Dutch covered in extra virgin olive oil as style, one piece at a time. blur permissibility and possibili- they greased up their bikes, prety. It is difficult to say in Dutch, sumably in an attempt to fit them. After three years in a city where 'I know it's not allowed but can I into the boxes. do it anyway?'. At home, we have a much more efficient translation, "We 'Ah here, be sound'.

don't respond well to crisis. Trains be made about Italians are usually not late, and they are plentiful, but when something goes wrong it goes wrong. Last vear a computer malfunction me- one." ant that no trains in or out of Amsterdam could run for about 12 Like when someone spills milk and hours. All the trains were in per- gets upset about it. It's so obvious of fighting the literal ocean In contrast, here in Ireland, trains minutes.

on this. There were too These elaborate Dutch systems many potential jokes to you while doing it. covered in extra virgin olive oil to choose just fect condition, but letting them it feels unfair. We also didn't comment because we saw in them an image of our future. T minus 10.

and charms him into holding it for the box bore down on us patronithe crucial minute that marks the singly. Simply turn the handlebars!

streamlined. It's just 'computer started asking questions about The bike boxes were not designed says no', or "that ish imposhible", corruption, bribery and fraud in for efficiency and came with only small-town Ireland I knew they two transport options. Vertical on had gotten the wrong end of the the trolley, leaving you unable to see your way, or horizontal, which would leave you locked out of lifts me a while to understand that "im- When I brought my bike to Schip- and effectively immobile. While poshible", when said by customer hol airport to bring her home to in Schiphol pedestrians scurried, more akin to, 'quite difficult for ciency but was faced with Dutch warpath, Dublin airport greeted I realised that the translation is sion in the bike-packing room. A expressions. Four different peopfrom the root "mogen", which is thirties were bent over two metal box down to the departures level, ter translation might be more like nisable as having once been bikes. tes late. There was a misty, dry unallowable, or impermissible. It is Their hands (and the floor) were rain as I unpacked the bike, Cash > everything works, until it doesn't, it feels right to be back home didn't comment where nothing works, but someone will always help you fit a box into the lift, even if they laugh at

Cloudy Chance

with Grand

Slam

Viktorija Greidāne

their living rooms. The recent release of film Chal- it becomes inevitable to start losing points. The tenlengers, starring Zendava as a tennis prodigy, has sion and the dissatisfaction of the player may be brought in a new batch of fans of the sport. This unleashed beyond the game score and in an expresfilm has become the centre of popular culture and sive and harmful way. This is when we see players captivated viewers' attention to learn more about break rackets, throw tantrums and call out judges this sport.

Competitive tennis is played in singles, doubles and not stop there, as the players go on to win multiple overall had a diverse style of playing. Grand Slam titles during their career.

Playing well is a task of its own, and even more so, playing under pressure, that causes the double faults, outs and missed shots. We can talk about each player's physical abilities, but the outcome of the match is often beyond the technical skill to swing a racket.

Key elements are a competitive spirit and an ability to concentrate in the moment when so much is at stake. These players have trained endless hours since their childhood and this is the point they are working towards - being the winner of the championship. Expectations from the team, family, fans, most importantly, from themselves impact the course of the match and also the result.

In every match the player searches for balance between technical and mental aspects, especially in significant matches, like Roland Garros. A well-played rally with a winning point gives the confidence he end of May and the start of June are mar- to keep going, take on more risks and eventuallyked by the French Open, Roland Garros, whe- win more points. It is like playing in the high-energy re tennis enthusiasts travel to Paris to see the field, where the player leads the way, and not their matches, and the rest of the world tunes in live from opponent. However, when the insecurity creeps in, in the heat of the moment, being caught up in the mixed doubles by men and women alike. They all Whether they show it or not, there is a storm hapface towards one goal – to be the best, be number pening within each player. In the championship this one in the world. The ranking reflects the players year in Paris, two semifinalists displayed their difperformance on the court, where points are attri- ferent approaches in handling this storm. One was buted according to the result of the championship. focused, concentrated and calm, even when the de-Grand Slam title is worth the most points, but is the feat was in the perspective. This collectiveness heldream beyond numbers. Grand Slam means winning ped him handle high pressure points. Another player all four major championships in the year in Australia, expressed his emotions by smiling, shouting and France, Britain (Wimbledon), and the United States. doing hand gestures, which similarly translated to It takes guite the talent, time, money and mindset his style of playing, where he took more risks when to reach that point in a tennis career, and it does confident and made silly mistakes when not, and

> "Being in the eye of the storm brings two options: one can release thunder and lightning or sit out the storm and wait while it passes."

> The balance between the two extremes is what not only tennis players search for, but each of us. With each season of our lives, we face stressful situations and must choose our fights, and decide when to let out that thunderstorm.

> Some say that thunderstorms call for bad weather, but I believe that to be the opposite. After the thunderstorm, there always comes sun, and in this case the Spanish tennis player got to the finals of Roland Garros, and ended up winning that title.

SES Calendar

Beachday - 22nd of June 2024

It is the end of the year so get ready for the annual beach day on the 22nd of June from 2pm on in Zandvoort. We hope for the best possible weather and to get together for some fun games of flunkyball or beach volleyball and for the daredevils among us, go for a swim!

Last Borrel of the Year - 25th of June 2024

The year is coming to and end, which means that we will have the last borrel on the 25th. Join the 39th Board one last time for a drink together with your friends before we separate for the break!

WANT TO WRITE FOR EUROVISIE? SEND YOUR ARTICLE TO EUROVISIE@SES-UVA.NL